COGNITIVE LEVELS OF ASSESSMENT

Examples of cognitive Learning Strategies

- Asking learners to reflect on their experiences
- Helping learners to find new solutions to problems
- Encouraging discussion about what is being taught
- Helping learners to explore and understand how ideas are connected
- Asking learners to justify and explain their thinking
- Using visualisation to improve learners' understanding and recall

Cognitive skills develop differently for different learners and this is why they demonstrate different levels of ability when it comes to learning and other forms of cognitive performance. For this reason, it is very important to incorporate the different cognitive levels in assessment. You will notice that more than 50% of questions in the assessment examples in this booklet target the basic cognitive levels which should make the assessment task accessible to all types of learning abilities in your class.

DUZI SIGHT WORDS LOOK · SAY · UNDERSTAND

This reading series focuses on the sight/whole words method. It has a unique feature in that the skill of learning to read and the skill of comprehension are introduced simultaneously.

NEW

This series can be used in conjunction with the Duzi Bugs Phonics Reading Scheme.

LOOK

This approach to the teaching of reading introduces learners to whole words and their meanings without breaking the words down into sounds.

The learner reads the word as a single unit by memorising its shape and the way that it looks.

SAY

The learner is shown a flashcard of the word, and the word is read out to them. The learner repeats what they have just been told. Several repetitions later, the learner is likely to recognise that word when they see it.

UNDERSTAND

This series recognises the importance of the inclusion of the cognitive skills of thinking, reasoning, understanding and learning at the outset of acquiring the skill of reading.

It thereby creates a cohesive experience of the skill of Learning to read and Reading for meaning.

Hattie the scatty Hen

Harry Horse was hammering away, fixing his house. He heard a strange noise from outside. "Ha-ha-haaa." He looked out and his eyes almost popped out of his head.

A hot air balloon was hovering just outside his door. And in the basket of the hot air balloon sat Hattie Hen.

"Ha-ha-haaa!" came the noise from the roof of Harry's house. Don't you laugh at me, Hadedada!" called Hattie. "You can't fly high. All you can do is hop-hop around."

"A hen in a crash helmet! It's hilarious," spluttered Hadedada. "Hattie, what do you think you're doing in a hot air balloon?" asked Harry.

"I'm going to fly over the houses and the hills and up to heaven."

"But why do you want to do that? You could come to harm."

"I'm doing it because I'm adventurous," replied Hattie matter-of-factly.

"But Hattie, do you know how to bring the balloon down again?" asked the worried horse.

"Well, I hadn't really thought of that," admitted Hattie.

"a-ha-ha! If she hits the helicopter blades, she'll come down in a hurry," said Hadedada. "Then the face on the balloon won't be happy facial!" And he started laughing again. "Hic...hic..... Oh Now I've got hiccoughs!"

The hot air balloon started to float away. Harry raised his hoof and waved. "Goodbye, Hattie," he called. "I hope we see you home again."
